Entasis Design, PLLC, is an architecture firm established in Kannapolis, North Carolina with over 62 years of collective experience serving clients in the areas of architecture, development consulting, land planning, urban design, LEED design, and construction administration. The Entasis team embraces the concept of following the client's lead to drive the creative process. By listening and responding to their clients' needs, Entasis Design has generated an impressive array of truly brilliant and inspiring architecture.

Entasis Design is proud to have been chosen by PBH to capture the essence of our mission and development through proper planning, problem solving, and architectural design. Careful consideration was given to PBH's focus on sustainability and the environment when determining the placement of the new Headquarters building. The Entasis team incorporated the property's natural surroundings with the building's layout. This approach preserved the beautiful wooded landscape, thereby creating a serene and welcoming setting for PBH employees and clients. The building's interior boasts an open floor plan with state-of-the-art materials and natural lighting, providing an environment that encourages productivity and collaboration between employees and their valued clients.

Entasis Design is confident that the impressive new PBH Headquarters will have a resonating impact on the local community by establishing a distinctive workplace and an iconic structure for the City of Kannapolis.
